We provided extensive training to our branch teams in order that they could fully support both personal and business customers with accessing alternative ways to bank. Following this training our branch staff have been proactively engaging with customers, particularly those who are reliant on the branch services, to help them look at the alternatives that are available, including the services provided by the Post Office.

We have also been engaging with the nearest Post Office counters to the branch to ensure they know we are closing, are aware of the services they can provide to our customers and to address any queries or concerns they may have in meeting the needs of our customers.

Follow up action taken

- We have contacted the 3 local Post Offices to ensure they are aware of the closure of Huntingdon, High Street and the services they can provide to our customers. The Network Manager has provided his email address to offer any support if needed during the transition for our customers.

- We have started to migrate business customers requiring change to the local Post Office which is a short walk away from the branch, this has ensured a staggered approach leading up to the closure. Customers have been grateful for this.
- All staff in Huntingdon, High Street have received tailored vulnerable customer training to upskill them in holding in depth conversations to support our customers in finding alternative ways to bank.
- We have ordered debit cards for many of our business customers who regularly pay in cash so they can do this at the Post Office.
- We have proactively contacted our vulnerable customers who use the branch to understand how they currently bank. During these calls we have taken the time to understand our customer's specific circumstances for example, where they live or transport used. This has allowed us to provide our customers with information on the services that may be suitable for them such as local Post Office or digital options available through our app or online banking.
